A panoramic view of the Palace of Westminster and the River Thames in London. The Palace of Westminster, a large Gothic Revival building made of light-colored stone, stands prominently on the left bank of the river. Its most recognizable feature is the Elizabeth Tower, commonly known as Big Ben, which houses the Great Bell. The river is visible in the foreground, with a green bridge (Westminster Bridge) spanning it. In the background, the city of London stretches into the distance under a clear sky.
